

Atlantis Azores Trip Information

- TUBBATAHA REEF
- BOHOL

- ANILAO, APO REEF & WRECKS OF CORON

Tubbataha Reef

Tubbataha is located in the Sulu Sea, at the center of the Coral Triangle between Indonesia, Malaysia and the Philippines. Rarely visited due to its location and its status as a marine preserve, Tubbataha is made up of two reefs, simply referred to as the North and South Reefs. The North and South Reef both enclose a sandy lagoon. On the southern tip is an islet with a lighthouse. This is used as a rookery for birds and is frequented by turtles.

Tubbataha Reefs Natural Parks is home to no less than 573 species of fish, 373 species of corals, 11 species of sharks, 12 species of dolphins and whales, nestling hawksbill and green sea turtle.

Anilao, Apo Reef & Wrecks of Coron

Atlantis Azores latest exciting itinerary is to the sunken World War II wrecks of Coron Bay via Apo Reef. A typical charter may start with a day exploring the macro life of Anilao (home to over 300 species of nudibranch) or diving the world famous Verde Island Drop Off, then it's off to Apo Reef – referred to by many as a "mini-Tubbataha" – for one of two days you will spend exploring the 34 mile long reef system.

Twenty four Japanese ships were sunk in Coron Bay on September 24, 1944 by the US Navy; you will have an opportunity to dive the best of these during our time there taking in both the unique history of the area and the amazing amount of fish and coral life that now cover the wrecks.
